Performance and Portfolio Comment

Market overview

In aggregate, the Fund's index rose around 5% in Australian dollar terms, with gains supported by a strong recovery in global equity markets. While US equities contributed positively, the strongest regional performance came from Asia, particularly Taiwan and South Korea, where markets were driven higher by continued enthusiasm for artificial intelligence and semiconductor-related companies.

Beneath the headline return, market leadership remained concentrated in businesses exposed to the AI infrastructure build-out.

At the sector level, Information Technology was the clear driver of market returns. Investor confidence remained high in companies positioned to benefit from rising demand for computing power, data centres and AI-enabled infrastructure.

In contrast, Energy was weaker as oil prices fell during the month, with investors reassessing geopolitical risks and the outlook for global supply. Healthcare also lagged, reflecting ongoing uncertainty around pricing, regulation and the durability of earnings growth.

More broadly, markets continued to be shaped by uncertainty around inflation, interest rates, economic growth and geopolitical tensions.

Despite this backdrop, equity returns over the month were still largely driven by investor sentiment and valuation expansion, particularly within a relatively narrow group of AI and semiconductor-related market leaders, rather than a broad-based improvement in underlying company fundamentals.

Performance overview

Over the past 12 months, the Fund has posted a total return net of fees of -6.74%, while the Solactive GBS Global Markets ex Australia Large & Mid Cap AUD Index returned 16.99%*. In May, the Fund returned 0.63% net of fees underperforming the market by 4.59%.

The best contributing sectors were Energy and Consumer Staples. The Fund's relative underweight to Energy was significant as once again it was the worst performing sector over the month. Within Consumer Staples, being underweight was a positive contribution to performance, as was stock selection.

Similar to last month, Fund performance was negatively impacted by the Fund's holdings in the Health Care and IT sectors, the Fund's long-standing overweight to Health Care also detracted from performance.

The top five contributors were Applied Materials, ASML Holding, Sonova, DBS Group, and Straumann.

The bottom five contributors were Zoetis, ResMed, Alphabet, Sage Group and Brown & Brown.

Dividends

There was one dividend announcement, Sonova with an increase of 6.8%.

Portfolio changes

There were no new investments or complete sales during the month.
